Trapp—Dannhauer. Dannhauer—Smith.

On Wednesday, June 3rd, a double wedding was celebrated at the residence of Mrs Carl Dannhauer on Meridian road, when two of her family participated in the double wedding held there. The first couple to be united in the holy bonds of matrimony were Miss Esther Dannhauer and Mr John Trapp.

Following this ceremony, Miss Charlotte Smith became the bride of Mr Edward Dannhauer, both of Stony Plain.

Both ceremonies were officiated at by the Rev L G Sieher, pastor of the United Church.

Mr Henry Trapp acted as the "best man" to both bridegrooms.

Following the double ceremony, the bridal party sat down to a sumptuous repast, at which only the close friends of both the contracting parties were present.

The Edward Dannhauer couple have taken up their residence in what is known as "Doll's House" on First avenue; while Johnnie Trapp and his bride leave today on a honeymoon trip, by rail, to the Coast. On their return, they will take up their residence on Meridian road.

Sports Executive Meets.

The executive of the Sports Day Club held its meeting in the town hall on the evening of May 28th, with the president, Mr George Oppertbauer, in the chair, and a fairly good attendance of members of the various committees.

The subject of having a band for the First was up for discussion; and in view of the fact there was no first-class band available for that day, the contract was awarded to the only tenderer, the Nicola Teala, Inc., which organisation has the reputation of giving splendid service wherever it has performed.

When the subject of printing and advertising came up, it was decided to follow last year's system regarding these, and this matter was left in the hands of Mr W E H Lewis.

The new game of Bingo was the next subject for discussion. It was agreed to allow the promoters a concession on the First on payment of a $10 fee and furnishing their own booth.

The committee which has the drawing up of the sports program reported progress; and it is probable that the 1936 schedule of sporting events will be much along the same lines as last year.

On motion, a resolution carried to allow the usual honorarium to the referee in the baseball competition.

It was brought to the attention of the Executive that some of the teams which compete in the basketball contests object to the size of the basketballs which they are required to use in the contests on the First. On motion, a resolution carried that an Official ball be provided for the competitions.

A Moral Renaissance

In a world riven with fear and mistrust, with greed, hatred and suspicion rampant between individuals, between economic, political and social groups and between nations, there must be much inward searching of souls, much communing of hearts in an effort to find the cause of all this strife in the hope that thereby a remedy may be found and once again nations may live in peace and people may pursue the paths of progress with hope and confidence in the future.

That there is much travail, seething and unrest at home and abroad no one can gainsay, and until some key has been found which will unlock the gate to peace and prosperity, there can be no assurance of widespread happiness and contentment.

What is this key, millions of people are asking themselves and asking one another as they view with dismay the ruffled waters of a troubled humanity?

Perhaps the answer is to be found in the statement made in the British House of Lords on March 19, 1886 by the Marquess of Salisbury, acorn of the famous prime minister of the same name in the late Victorian era, when he said:

"The cause of the world's state is not economic; the cause is moral. . . If I may use a phrase which is common in a great movement which is taking place in this country and elsewhere (The Oxford Group) what you want are God-guided personalities, which make God-guided nationalities, to make a new world. All the other ideas of economic adjustments are too small really to touch the centre of the evil."

If such a statement were made from the pulpit it would probably be regarded by many as more or less of a commonplace, something to be expected from such a source, but when it is made by a peer of the realm in such an institution as the House of Lords of Great Britain, it has more arresting and significant effect and serves to emphasize what might be considered a platitude if uttered by others elsewhere.

The minds of many great leaders are being directed in this channel as is evident from recent utterances of other great men whose words, whether their political or economic creeds are accepted, inspire serious thought and consideration.

A similar idea was expressed about the same time by President Roosevelt of the United States when he said:

"No greater thing could come today to our land than a revival of the spirit of religion—a revival that would sweep through the homes of the nation and stir the hearts of men and women of all faiths to a reassertion of their belief in God and their dedication to His will for themselves and for their world. I doubt if there is any problem—social, political or economic—that would not melt away before the fire of such a spiritual awakening."

Further testimony in support of this sentiment comes from Roger Babson, founder of the Babson Statistical organization, whose prophecies of future trends based on statistical data are regarded as authoritative over the entire continent. Mr. Babson recently said: "I expect a business revival. But only a spiritual awakening among the people can make it enduring."

These and other authorities among the people can make it enduring. They are unanimous in their opinion that before there can be a change in the national and international outlook it is essential that the viewpoint be changed and that, in effect, a moral renaissance is necessary for the national viewpoint can be none other than that of the individuals which constitute it.

It might perhaps be said: What is the use of Canadians adopting an unselfish or a lofty moral viewpoint so long as the peoples of other countries exemplify a diametrically opposed outlook? Such a restricted conception of purpose and duty could only serve to delay the consummation of the peace, concord and prosperity which the great majority desire to see. Reform and improvement must first come from within and spread outwards like the ripples on the water from the cast stone.

Whether one agrees or not with the doctrines of the Oxford Group movement, one cannot but recognize that when they draw attention to the fact that there must first be a change in the individual before there can be a changed national viewpoint, they are hitting the bullseye.

Get Practical Training

High School in Jacksonville, Florida, Has Splendid Plan

In Jacksonville, Florida, high school boys and girls are getting training for future jobs in the community at the same time they attend school. They go to school part of the day and the other part they spend in the department store, advertising office, broadcasting station, theatre, hotel, classroom, telephone office, learning practical work right on the job. Since the inauguration of the "Jacksonville Plan" about two years ago, 86 per cent. of the vocational pupils have secured jobs upon graduation, and the plan is spreading to other cities of the south and west. The majority of the boys and girls leaving high school today cannot go to college, yet their training is directed toward that goal. When they apply for a job, the employer asks: "What can you do?" The answer is, "I don't know, but I can try anything." The Jacksonville graduate says: "I have had two years' experience in a bank," or is an auto-mechanic's shop, or any other of the 43 different types of training positions in the community—Christian Science Monitor.

Admiral Of Yacht Squadron

King Edward Has Office First Held By Edward VII

The King has become Admiral of the Royal Yacht Squadron, perhaps the most exclusive club in the world. Edward VII was the first holder of the office of admiral, inaugurated at his accession in 1901. The club itself was established in 1812.

A story circulated that the famous royal racing cutter Britannia is to be sunk to spare her indignity of the ship-breakers yard. However, enquiries showed this report incorrect. The King has given instructions that the sails and rigging of the craft be sold, but the remainder of the equipment is to be stored and no instructions have been given regarding the hull. The Britannia was built in 1893 for Edward VII, when he was Prince of Wales. The famous cutter won 231 first prizes and 129 other awards in 625 races in the course of 43 years of racing.

Auguste was born a normal elephant, but suddenly stopped growing, and is a dwarf to this day. He arrived in a crate labelled: "Fragile; don't turn upside down."

Need More Scholarships

More Opportunity Required For Bright Students Without Means

Dr. R. C. Wallace, newly-appointed principal of Queen's University, stated at Ottawa that Canada needed more scholarships for her students. Dr. Wallace, president of the University of Alberta, succeeds Dr. W. Hamilton Pyfe, who accepted principality of Aberdeen University.

It should be possible for a student, irrespective of means, if he has the mental ability, to go right through school and college, said Dr. Wallace.

Regarding positions for university graduates, Dr. Wallace said: "People to-day are realizing more and more the importance of trying to help the trained person and many businessmen are recognizing this and doing all that lies in their power to prevent the trained person from going to waste."

"Sports have a real value in their correct place," he said. "We must remember that students do not go to the university for sports. That is not why universities were founded."

A palace on the Mount of Olives built by an emperor now in exile may become the permanent home of another fugitive sovereign.

Haili Selsaie, who fled before the Italian armies, may make his residence in the Kaiserhof palace built by Kaiser Wilhelm II, for his wife, the Empress Augusta Victoria, after their visit to Jerusalem at the end of the last century, it was reported. At that time Palestine was part of the Turkish Empire.

Needed Larger Shoes

A pair of size 39 shoes, costing $88 was made in Findlay, Ohio, for Robert Wadlow, the 18-year-old giant of Alton, Ill. The shoes, probably the largest ever made, were returned, however, because Wadlow said, they "pinched" his feet.

Was Noted Explorer

Harry Whitney, Of New York, Dies In Montreal Hospital

Harry Whitney, of New York, noted explorer and big game hunter, died in hospital at Montreal recently. He was born in 1873.

In 1909 and 1910 he was the centre of a controversy about discovery of the north pole. Mr. Whitney had gone north with Admiral Peary, and in 1909 both Admiral Peary and Dr. Frederick A. Cook returned from the Arctic and both claimed discovery of the north pole.

Doubt was cast on Dr. Cook's claims, and Mr. Whitney entered the controversy. He said he had gone hunting while with the Peary expedition and met Dr. Cook, who left instruments, clothing and other effects with him which Whitney cached.

He said Peary refused to take them aboard his vessel, the Roosevelt.

When the controversy broke it was intimated Mr. Whitney had destroyed Cook's records or had purposely left them behind. Mr. Whitney made only one statement, that Dr. Cook had told him of reaching the north pole and had sworn him to secrecy.

Mr. Whitney returned to the Arctic in three successive summers and continued to be a member of parties which went to the Arctic with Bartlett until 1930.

After leaving the army he threw away his crutch, mounted a motorcycle and learned to ride unaided. Since then he has not needed the crutch.

Evidence Of Discovery By Norse Of This Continent 500 Years Before Columbus

Theory that an ancient Norse explorer saw Prince Edward Island plover reached the Gulf of St. Lawrence more than 500 years before Columbus made his landfall far to the south, was contained in a paper read before the historical section of the Royal Society of Canada by Col. Wilfrid Bovey of McGill University, Montreal.

Col. Bovey, recapitulating evidence of Norse discovery contained in ancient accounts, including the saga of Eric the Red, in the light of new evidence concluded that Bjarni Herjulfson sailed from Iceland about 986 and was driven far south by the wind, missing Newfoundland and entering the Gulf of St. Lawrence through Cabot strait.

After reaching Prince Edward Island, on which he did not land, Col. Bovey suggested, Herjulfson sailed north through the straits of Belle Isle and landed at the southern tip of Greenland.

He suggested also that evidence of old records indicated Lief Ericson, son of Eric the Red, voyaged up the St. Lawrence a considerable distance about the year 1000 and that the country he named Vinland was in fact territory at a point impossible to fix at this date.

Col. Bovey said there was evidence to support the belief also that Thorfinn Karlsefne and Freydis, a daughter of Eric the Red, reached Vinland about three years later.

Complete Drainage Tunnel

Project Is Only Second Of Its Kind In The World

Vancouver engineers have completed a 200-foot vertical shaft to take care of the drainage problem at Point Grey. It is the only one of its kind in Canada and the only other in the world is at Boston, Mass.

The project was necessitated by erosion, due to melting snow and heavy rain around the Spanish banks which seriously threatened homes and property.

The shaft, near the University of British Columbia, is a spiral with cement flanged to divert the flow and slacken the tremendous speed the water would attain if allowed to drop 200 feet. A worm's-eye-view gives the impression of dropping through a huge, four-foot rib barrel, the rifling representing the spiral grooves.

Two large pipes look after drainage water in the district which flows into a circular receiving tank surrounding the shaft. From here the water passes between grids (which act as a sieve against debris) and passes into nozzle-like vents. A 12-foot drop and the water starts its circular route to the bottom.

The centrifugal force built up keeps the water on the flanges, leaving the diameter of the shaft free. A "cushion" of water at the bottom is created by slanting upwards a short section of the run-off pipe thus breaking the force of the water.

Peculiar Pacific Fish

Had To Obtain Government Permission To Capture Penguins

Spectacles of some of the peculiar fish captured in the Pacific ocean are on display at the Bermuda government aquarium, brought to Hamilton, Bermuda, in Vincent Astor's yacht Nourmahal. Louis Mowbray, curator of the aquarium, had charge of the 1002 varieties, taken during a 69-day voyage from San Pedro, Calif., to the Galapagos Islands in the Pacific and thence to Bermuda by way of the Panama canal.

Twenty-one penguins formed the outstanding part of the vast collection. Curator Mowbray explained the permission of the Bermudian government had to be obtained before capture of these, because the species was being depleted by unnecessary slaughter and activity of sharks.

Steamers are called tramp steamers when they do not belong to any regular steamship company but are operated by individuals and have no regular routes.

Prevention For Paralysis

Plan To Use Sprays To Curb Spread Of Disease

Plans at the Rockefeller Institute to try a newly discovered method of protecting children against infantile paralysis this summer and fall were announced to the American Medical Association at Kansas City, Mo., recently.

Thomas M. Rivers, M.D., of Rockefeller Institute, one of the foremost virus experts in medicine, told of the hoped for infantile paralysis preventive. The paralysis is caused by a virus, a disease agent too small to be found with a microscope.

Experiments in the past year at Rockefeller Institute and elsewhere have revealed that several simple nasal sprays seem able to prevent entry of the paralysis virus into living bodies. The experiments will be made with these sprays.

"Although the use of vaccines and sera," said Dr. Rivers, "at present offers little of value in the prevention and treatment of poliomyelitis, the results of work with agents of another nature seem to present hope that a method of controlling the disease eventually may be evolved."

"It is now believed that the virus of poliomyelitis enters the brain from the nasal mucous membranes by way of the olfactory nerve. With this idea in mind, a number of workers have conducted experiments with several viruses in man, thus one host in order to ascertain whether the entrance of a neurotropic virus into the central nervous system can be blocked by the application of simple chemical substance to the mucous membranes of the nose."

A "neurotropic virus" is one which attacks nerve cells. A "host" is the animal receiving a virus inoculation. These nasal sprays which seem to block entry of virus were described by Dr. Rivers. One is tannic acid, which protected horses against the virus of encephalomyelitis. Another is sodium alum, which protected mice against the type of encephalitis or sleeping sickness virus which caused the St. Louis outbreak a few years ago. Alum spraying repeatedly protected monkeys against the human type of infantile paralysis.

Had Right Viewpoint

John Quincy Adams Believed Body Is Just A House

Do you remember that quaint answer that an ex-president of the United States, John Quincy Adams, gave, at the age of 80 to a friend, whom he met in a Boston street? The friend asked him: "How is John Quincy Adams to-day?" and the answer came: "Thank you, John Quincy Adams himself is well, quite well, I thank you. But the house in which he lives at present is becoming dilapidated. It is tottering upon its foundations. Time and the seasons have nearly destroyed it. Its roof is pretty well worn out. Its walls are much shattered, and it trembles with every wind. The old tenement is becoming uninhabitable, and I think John Quincy Adams will have to move out of it soon. But he himself is quite well, quite well."

Prints Section In Gaelic

Nova Scotia Newspaper Provides Service Twice Every Week

The Daily Post-Record of Sydney, Nova Scotia, is one of the few newspapers in the British Empire that makes regular provisions for its Gaelic readers. Twice each week it prints a section in Gaelic, and the publishers report that in the two years this practice has been followed the Gaelic pages have grown steadily in popularity. "There are many Gaelic-speaking people in Eastern Nova Scotia," said the Post-Record recently, "than anywhere else in the world outside the Highlands of Scotland."

Has Abandoned Literature

Robert Service, Poet Of The Yukon, Turns His Attention To Music

Clement Burns, librarian of the supreme court of Canada, disclosed his old friend, Robert W. Service, poet of the Yukon, had written saying he was turning his attention to music.

Burns, who met the poet in the Yukon while Service was working with a bank, said his friends wrote that he had abandoned literature but that, even though he plays the piano poorly, he has composed some songs and is thinking of publishing them.

The letter, written from Cote-du-Nord in France where Service has made his home, reads in part: "I seldom think. I don't believe in it. I try to develop vacuity of mind and childlike innocence. Also to cultivate my capacity for ignorance. I am of the opinion that mental obtuseness is a great factor on longevity. In fact, a certain cheerfulness is to be prized."

"I am afraid that now the memories of my Yukon days are faint and far away. The war seemed to blast everything else into insignificance. I saw so much hardship and horror and every second man was a hero; so that the Yukon saga seems relatively unimportant."

The King's Property

No One Ever Disturbed Swans On Thames River

One of the sights of the upper Thames is the swans which are to be seen floating around gracefully on the surface of the water, often followed by a pair of cygnets. They move about the small boats which frequent these waters fearlessly, for no one disturbs them, as they are regarded as the King's property. As a matter of fact, they are owned jointly by the King, the Vintners' Guild and the Dyers' Guild. Every year in July the King's Swan Masters make a trip over the river and they make a mark on the bird's bill to indicate its ownership. The cygnets, which have been unmarked, are divided among the owners. Persons desiring to own swans may apply and if their application is passed upon favorably they are given a pair. They must prove that they have a suitable place to keep the birds.

Metal Was British

An interesting revelation, says the St. Thomas Times-Journal, is that the Zeppelin company bought the twisted framework of the British ship R-101 which was driven down by a storm in France some years ago, melted it down and re-poured the metal into the framework of the Hindenburg. So the R-101 flew the Atlantic after all.

As They Saw It

Young School Girls Pay Visit To House Of Commons

Forty little girls, aged 10 and 11, seated sedately in rows in the visitors' gallery, absorbed what they could hear of the speeches in the House of Commons at Ottawa as part of their education. Afterwards in a bay windowed recess of a parliamentary corridor, they were questioned by their teacher, Miss Margaret McLean.

The girls have been studying "civics" all year and after this trip to give them a general idea of how laws are made by men whose pictures they had seen in the papers, they were keen to show their knowledge.

Did they know who was the prime minister? A dozen hands went up: "Mr. King." The gentlemen clustered around Mr. King were the Liberals. Who were those closest to Mr. King? A hand or two went up. They were the cabinet ministers.

What were the gentlemen doing? One solitary hand went up. "They are making rules for Ottawa." No, that was not quite right, said Miss McLean, they were not making rules for Ottawa but Canada, nine provinces and one territory. And what did they do this afternoon? There was a general silence, then an outburst: "We couldn't hear." Finally an onlooker asked a question: Did the children think the members looked very clever? The answer, the most unanimous, came with one voice. "No."

Alberta Receives A Gift

New Raising German Moorfool As A Game Bird

Germany has reciprocated Canada's gift of moose and buffalo sent to the Berlin zoo with two pair of European moorfool.

Alberta Game Department officials believe this is the first time the birds have been brought to the province. The moorfool were received through G. von Krunder, trapper and game warden, who arranged the shipping of the moose and buffalo.

Mr. Von Krunder said he hoped it would be possible to develop a new source of sport for hunters in several years as the moorfool multiplied.

The birds have been placed under protection of the Alberta Fish and Game Protection League, and will be housed in Edmonton.

The mapping of buried shore lines, a new venture in oil prospecting which indicates untouched oil resources five miles below the earth's surface, was described at the International Petroleum Exposition at Tulsa, Okla.

Present deepest American oil wells go down two miles. The new maps, charting the contours of more than 100 different seas which covered parts of what is now the United States from time to time in the last billion years, indicate untold oil resources still within the present two-mile drilling depth limit—and more deeper down.

This new mapping, originated at the University of Tulsa, was described by L. R. Landon, professor of geology. He said the newest oil-prospecting device, the sea-made earthquake already has reached its limit. It will continue to reveal the "dome" oil-bearing structures.

But, he said, the greatest resources are not revealed by the artificial "quake." These new resources lie just inside the buried sea-shores charted by the University of Tulsa method.

The shorelines of the ancient seas were fed by erosion with silt and debris. In the third countless billions of years of marine animals from the sites of pin points up to mollusks, called ammonites, 10 feet in diameter.

As these perished and dropped into the mud, each left at least one tiny droplet of imperishable oil-to-day's petroleum. Subsequent ages buried these shores and turned the mud to stone. Wherever porous stone was formed the oil gathered in the "pools" of to-day.

These ancient shores can be identified by the fossil which the drills bring up. Nearly 1,000 different kinds of these fossils are recorded at Tulsa. They show where the seashores were and date the time when the sea existed. These dried up sea beds are no longer level but tilt at all angles.

Motors To Replace Horses

Canada, Considering Plans To Mechanize Artillery Units

Something suggestive of the principle that "the old grey mare ain't what she used to be" is leading the Department of National Defense to go in strongly for mechanization of its artillery units. The horse as a motive force is disappearing, and it won't be long now before it passes completely out of the artillery picture, authorities at Ottawa predict.

This is what is happening in Great Britain and other countries and the same trend is being followed in Canada, with due regard to the limitations of available space. There are several hundred horse batteries in the country, using horses exclusively. The intention is to use the same guns, but with motors for propulsion.

It is expected that before the end of the season a statement on this question will be made in Parliament, giving details and exploring the possibilities of reorganization.

Idea Is All Wrong

Age Does Not Always Affect A Person's Ability

Because of the "stupid and insane" phrase "Too old at 45," there are thousands of men in every branch of the professions who will never find employment again, declared the lord Mayor of London (Sir Percy Vincent) at the Mansion House, E.C.4. He was presiding over an appeal organized by the "Over Forty-Fives" Association, Ltd., and the "Forty-Fives" Housing Society, Ltd., on behalf of unemployed men of more than 45 whose positions placed them out of the unemployment benefit scheme. Sir Malcolm Campbell said that it was impossible to judge people physically or mentally by a mere period of years. Some were old at 30 and others young at 60.

New Theory For Longevity

Egyptian Thinks Keeping Brain Well Rested Is Help

Learning shortens your life. That is the conviction of a 112 years old man in Cairo, Egypt. Aem Mohamed, a milkman, claims to have just completed 112 years and still makes his goats, and delivers the milk from door to door, as usual, often climbing several flights of stairs. His recipe for life is: Don't drink, don't smoke, don't indulge in pleasure, and, above all, don't tire your brain with learning. Mohamed enjoys three hearty meals daily. Two of them consist of beans, and the third of meat and vegetables. He has married only once. His wife is still alive. Her "baby," their youngest son, is aged 68.

Returning A War Relic

Coast City Sends Back An Exquisitely Carved Font Cover

Responding to a request for return of all relics removed from historic St. Martin's cathedral, Ypres, Belgium, destroyed in 1915 by German gunfire, Victoria has forwarded an intricately carved font cover which stood for several years in Christ Church cathedral in Victoria, B.C.

The Belgian church, noted for some exquisite carvings, was almost destroyed during the war, and many of its most valued pieces disappeared. After citizens of Ypres decided to rebuild the structure, an appeal was sent to all allied and central powers for return of any pieces carried away by opposing troops. Officials report hundreds have already been returned.

The oak font cover, five feet in height, appears to be very old and is elaborately carved by hand. How it found its way to the coast city is not definitely known.

Fresh Air Seems Scarce

According To Figures Showing Pollution Breathed Into Lungs

Britons breathe, it has been computed, per breath about 12,000,000 coal-produced particles, 700,000 gasoline particles from automobile exhaust, 37,000 rubber-dust particles, 25,000 tobacco-ash particles. Proponents of greater government efforts for combating atmospheric pollution use such figures as propaganda, permitting the public to imagine what the inside of their lungs look like.

Proves His Claim

Pioneer Resident Says Alberta's First Oil Found 57 Years Ago

Proof that the first crude oil was found in Alberta in November, 1879, 57 years ago, is held by William McCordell, well known pioneer resident of Banff.

Mr. McCordell produced a letter from Joseph Lake, now residing at Invermere, B.C. This letter stated that in Upper Room in Jerusalem where Jesus and his disciples held their last supper together. After a long farewell talk and final intercessory prayer, told only in the Fourth Gospel, the scene changes to the sorrowful walk across the Brook Kidron to the Garden of Gethsemane. "There is an awful silence in a sleep-like mood, but never did the silence speak to a heart so still in its agony as to the One that was then seeking in Gethsemane a place of seclusion and prayer." To his disciples that tortured One said, "Pray that ye enter not into temptation," as he went apart from them, a stone's cast. "Pathetic beyond the power of language to utter is the fact that even the Lord himself, who had his own bitter cup to drink, his thought was of the temptations to which, in the hour of excitement and confusion, his own beloved disciples would be exposed" (Reuben Thomas). Read the full story of the last night of Jesus in the 26th chapter of Matthew.

"Father, let this cup pass from me, but not thy will, then he added, 'Nevertheless, not my will, but thine be done.' It has always seemed to me that Dr. Charles Lewis Slattery, 'that between those two prayers, there was even to the Perfect Son a new knowledge of the Father. Love a moment before seemed—if one may judge by the prayer—of a sacrifice, then, in a moment, the sacrifice seemed to melt into the exultation of the Father's love for his Son's immortal service to the world. And Dr. revealed a new phase of his love. And being in agony he prayed more earnestly; and his sweat became, as it were, great drops of blood falling down upon the ground. After giving up the last of possible reasons for the prayer and the agony in Gethsemane, notably the sins of the world, Slattery adds these words to which all will subscribe: 'But no one will ever know the true meaning of the words cried out by the Son to the Father, in the black loneliness of the olives. A great French Christian once wrote of this night: 'The Mystery of Jesus.' The prayer of Gethsemane is the most inscrutable mystery of the story of Christ."

And there appeared unto him an angel from heaven, strengthening him. And he would not sleep from what Jesus said a few hours later as he hung upon the cross that he had momentary difficulty in believing without any misgiving that his Father was looking upon that scene with sympathy and understanding. "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" was his cry, and while those words must have represented but a fleeting struggle of the soul, we may be sure that they were spoken with intense feeling that Jesus did really feel that he was being left to carry his load of disappointment and suffering alone. And here in Gethsemane came the strengthening assurance of his Father's love and care.

Lesson: Luke 22:39-71.
Devotional reading: Isaiah 63:1-6.

Explanations And Comments

The Agony in the Garden, Luke 22:39-46. Last week our scene was in that Upper Room in Jerusalem where Jesus and his disciples held their last supper together. After a long farewell talk and final intercessory prayer, told only in the Fourth Gospel, the scene changes to the sorrowful walk across the Brook Kidron to the Garden of Gethsemane. "There is an awful silence in a sleep-like mood, but never did the silence speak to a heart so still in its agony as to the One that was then seeking in Gethsemane a place of seclusion and prayer." ## Scorn Electric Devices

Professional Polish Floors In Russia With Their Feet

One profession in Soviet Russia has successfully resisted the age of mechanization which has eliminated many age-old methods of work.

Floor polishers, who since the time of Catherine the Great have capered, one shoe on and one shoe off, continue to manipulate with the bare foot wax, brushes and polishing cloths. Proud of their profession, many have developed a distinctive dance to impart the final bit of sheen. They successfully have prevented introduction of electrical polishing devices.

Old Custom Affected

Because Chinese are losing their faith in the efficacy of eggs to prevent a sore back, the poultry industries are seeking a government mandate to proclaim the festival of Lih Hsia, or "beginning of summer" as "national egg eating day." Eggs have been a special food of the festival for centuries. Disappearance of old beliefs, however, is affecting the custom.

YOUR GARDEN

General garden insect enemies are divided into two groups—those that eat holes in the foliage and those that suck out the juices. For the first-named, poison is usually applied, while the suckers are attacked with a burning spray which penetrates. Often when both are present, a combination of poison and something that burns, such as lime sulphur and arsenate, gives the best results. The damage from the biting insects is usually quite apparent but the presence of the other kind is only shown at first by a wilting or withering of the foliage. For sucking pests, such as the aphids, the scale or plant lice, spray with whale oil soap, a quarter pound of soap to a gallon of water; for the sucking fungus or "Black Leaf", or any other repellent secured from a reliable source. When the sucking insects attack the plants, the foliage usually turns yellow or brown, or white spots like mildew appear. Fungus is most common in warm, muggy weather. Spraying with Bordeaux mixture, dusting with specially prepared dust, or spraying with a fine spray of water will also protect hollyhocks and phlox from rust, if applied when the disease first shows itself. An ordinary tin can with the top perforated like a salt shaker makes a good blower. Cut worms which eat through newly set out plants at the base of the stem are poisoned by spraying sweetened bran mixed with Paris Green or special mixtures about the plants.

The more tender sorts of vegetables are beans, tomato plants, squash, cucumbers, and melons. These will not start to grow until the weather and soil really become warm. All these warm weather vegetables prefer, open soil and any members of the melon family take special delight in hot, sandy soil, though it must be made rich. There is still plenty of time to make second and third sowings of nearly all standard vegetables such as beets, carrots, corn, beans, etc.; first celery is set out now.

Wins Efficiency Trophy

Captain Hosken Awarded Shield For The Fourth Time

Signal honor was paid Captain A. J. Hosken, R.N.R., commander of R.M.S. Empress of Canada, when, at a ceremony on board his ship, at Vancouver, B.C., he and his crew were presented with the Chairman's shield. This is emblematic of superiority on company ships on the Pacific in all matters pertaining to life-saving, including discipline, upkeep and maintenance of life-saving gear, organization with regard to control of passengers, operation of lifeboats, fire drill, and other similar matters.

The shield is awarded yearly, and has been the trophy of efficiency on ships of the fleet since it was first presented in 1929 by Sir Edward W. Beatty. Captain Hosken has now won it four times. He won it in 1929, when he was commander of R.M.S. Empress of Russia, and held it for two subsequent years. Then it went to Capt. L. D. Douglas of R.M.S. Empress of Japan for three years, and now Captain Hosken has won it back. It is the first time it has gone to R.M.S. Empress of Canada, of which Captain Hosken has been in command for the past year.

The presentation was made by K. J. Barr, postmaster, during the course of a luncheon on board the ship.

CANADA MUST COUNT THE COST OF NATIONHOOD

London, Ont.—A call to Canadians to face the growing power of dictators, militarism and reaction throughout the world, to take account of the responsibilities of national aspirations and their defence, and a warning against the cost of protection obtained from a stronger nation, were voiced by Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett, former prime minister, at the annual convention of Ontario Medical Association.

Referring to the "visionary means of security provided by the League of Nations," Mr. Bennett said it was for the British commonwealth to take up the cause of peace and security where the league "laid it down."

If Canada's aspirations to self-sustaining nationhood were genuine the people would have to ask themselves if they were prepared to pay the price—if they had the united will and moral character to give reality to that aspiration. British national ideals involved liberty of the individual but not license, power to defend that liberty, and the general welfare of the public.

"These immediate aims of the state are common to all nations," Mr. Bennett said, "and we could have our present material advantages in large part even if we surrendered our Canadian identity."

Painting a dark picture of world conditions with individual liberty subordinated to the power of the state, international covenants disregarded and democracy in the discard, Mr. Bennett declared Canada could, if she wished, rely on others, who are stronger, for defence. "But the day will come," he warned, "when we will find our writing on a piece of paper." To trust in such a method would be to "suffer a painful disillusionment of which Europe today provides so grim an example."

Canada, in common with other units of the British commonwealth, had developed a diplomatic solidarity. "But our minds in recent years have been somewhat diverted from its fine mechanism," Mr. Bennett said, "by our decision to accept the more visionary means of security provided by the League of Nations."

"The task of the British commonwealth in preserving and securing peace must now be taken up where the League of Nations laid it down," the former prime minister declared. Collapse of democracy in one country after another, growth of militarism and the turmoil of reaction in which the great laboring masses surrendered to dictatorships, had seen "initiative smothered and individualism ground into the dust," he said.

"The time has gone when we, as Canadians, can separate world movements from our own national destiny, our own national destiny. Until our claims to national consciousness have become associated with national objectives, we cannot acquire an intelligent appreciation of world problems or international obligations."

Livestock Industry

Co-operation From Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Board

Medicine Hat, Alta.—With the object of sponsoring development of the livestock industry in the short grass area of the west, the Short Grass Stockgrowers' Association, representing 30,000 square miles of territory, was organized here.

John Wallace, of Regina, chairman of the prairie farm rehabilitation board, attended the organizing meeting and promised whole-hearted co-operation.

The new association will co-operate with other livestock organizations for the general welfare of ranchers.

Stop Budget Leaks

Finance Minister May Change Act Regulating Tariff Board

Ottawa.—Hon. C. A. Dunning, finance minister, dropped a hint in the House of Commons of a change in the act regulating the tariff board in order to guard against budget leaks.

The law, as passed three or four years ago, stipulated reports on appeals made to the board by the finance minister must be tabled within 15 days of the opening of parliament. Both this government and the last one have accepted, almost entirely, tariff changes recommended by the board.

The finance minister said a board report, tabled several days before the budget, could be used as the basis for speculation. Considering the fact the government almost invariably accepted the recommendations, it would be betting on a sure thing. He was not prepared to say he would change the act, but he thought the situation was a dangerous one, considering the necessity for secrecy on the contents of the budget.

Hon. R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, agreed with him, adding the provision in the law was inserted on the recommendations of the Liberals in the last parliament.

Health Insurance

Experiment With Socialization Of Medical Service In Ontario

London, Ont.—Dr. W. Colbeck, Welland, president of the Ontario Medical Association, announced that the association would experiment with socialization of medical services under a system of voluntary health insurance. The experiments would be conducted in certain sections of the province after the start of next year.

Dr. Colbeck, in his speech to the directors of the O.M.A. following his installation, declared this step necessary, "because if we do not socialize ourselves and develop the proper technique, or service governments will be forced to try their hand."

Trial areas, both rural and urban, will be selected and the system tried out for a year to discover if it is practical, Dr. Colbeck said. A corporate body will be set up which will be directly responsible to the O.M.A. and whose personnel will be composed entirely of doctors.

Premiums will be payable both on the basis of individuals and families, but with little more than ground work laid, Dr. Colbeck refused to hazard a guess as to what these premiums would amount to.

Will Unveil Memorial

King Edward Accepts Invitation To Officiate At Vimy

Ottawa.—King Edward will unveil the Vimy Memorial on July 26, Premier Mackenzie King announced in the House of Commons. The president of France also will be present.

The prime minister's announcement merely indicated the King had accepted the government's invitation to unveil the memorial.

No Election Changes

Ottawa.—No steps will be taken this session to introduce proportional representation or the single transferable vote into Canadian federal elections, the House of Commons committee investigating the Election Act has decided.

SEED COMMISSIONER

Nelson Young, who has been appointed to the position of Seed Commissioner, Department of Agriculture, to succeed George H. Clark, who retired in April, Mr. Young was born at Cypress River, Manitoba, and for several years has been on the staff of the Dominion Seed Branch, serving at Fort William, Winnipeg and Saskatoon.

B.N.A. Act

Proposed Amendment To Go To Committee

Ottawa.—The senate decided without a division to refer to its banking and commerce committee the proposed joint parliamentary resolution to Westminster for amendment to the British North America Act. Senator Raoul Dandurand, Liberal leader, accepted the resolution, proposed by Senator J. J. Donnelly (Cons. Bruce), and said he had no objection to representatives of provincial governments going before the committee to give their views on constitutional change.

He said attorneys-general of the provinces had approved the resolution in precise terms but that representatives of public bodies and individuals also would be heard by the committee.

The form and procedure being followed in the present instance was the same pursued in every amendment to the constitution since confederation. Senator Dandurand declared. There was no danger confederation might be disrupted by the proposed amendment.

Provincial delegates to the Dominion-provincial conference last fall had agreed on the proposed change. "Can we question the authority of the duly accredited representatives of the provinces?" Senator Dandurand asked. In 1907, 1915 and 1919 when important changes were made in the constitution there had been no suggestion the expressed content of the different provincial legislatures should be part of the request to Westminster for changing the act.

French Workers Strike

Stated They Will Occupy Factories Until Demands Met

Paris.—The French aviation industry was paralyzed by a strike of more than 2,000 metallurgists who threw down their tools and announced they would refuse to work but would continue to occupy the factories until their demands were met.

The metallurgists demanded salary raises, guaranteed minimums, a 35-hour week and vacations with pay.

Appeal For Assistance

Foreigners Are Besieged By Natives In Ethiopia

Khartoum, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.—A small band of foreigners, including a number of missionaries, was reported besieged by 3,000 Ethiopian warriors at Salo, in western Ethiopia near the Sudan border.

A chieftain who has proclaimed himself king of Waigga province is at the head of the tribal force, which comprises deserters from the ranks of Emperor Haile Selassie's disbanded armies, despatches said.

An appeal for assistance received by British authorities said the native governor of Salo had fled and the nearest column of Italian troops was three days' march distant.

The cryptic message from the town about 43 miles east of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan frontier and 56 miles northwest of Gore, read as follows:

"The governor has fled. A column of Italian troops is three days' march distant from us. If it arrives in time our lives and goods will be saved. We are at the mercy of rebel attacks."

Salo is about 270 miles west of Addis Ababa and only 30 miles south of Gambela, Ethiopian city leased to Sudan authorities in the three-power treaty of 1906. Gambela is an important caravan and trading centre with a comparatively large foreign population.

To Visit Scotland

King Edward Plans For Summer Vacation At Balmoral

London.—King Edward is planning to spend several weeks annually in the late summer in Balmoral in Scotland, as his father did before him.

It was learned that His Majesty will probably remain there for two or three weeks in September. On such visits the sovereign and his nearest kinsmen always wear the kilt.

Balmoral, like Sandringham, is not crown property. It was bought by the Prince-Consort, Queen Victoria's husband, and during the latter's long widowhood was equal in her affections with Osborne on the Isle of Wight.

The castle was entirely rebuilt when it became a royal possession.

The Duke and Duchess of York probably will be there in August with the Duke and Duchess of Gloucester staying nearby.

Early Season At Churchill

Ice At Mouth Of River Has Broken Up

Churchill, Man.—Ice at the mouth of the Churchill river, here has broken up and the river is clear from the bay to within a quarter of a mile from the north end of the government dock—a condition never known here before so early in the year.

The ice is some 10 feet in depth where it has broken off and considerable speculation has arisen as to the cause. Floe ice has also broken away from the shore line in the bay earlier than usual and trappers coming down from the north state floe ice is not as thick as in ordinary years.

Word reaching here from Wager Inlet, Repulse bay and Pond's Inlet, 500 miles north of here at the top of Hudson Bay, is that the fur catch was below average. Letter mail is expected to reach here from these outposts about the middle of July.

BANDS OF ARABS CONTINUE SNIPING IN HOLY LAND

Jerusalem.—Authorities hastily enrolled special police and watched to protect outlying Jewish districts from Arab bands keeping up an intermittent sniping throughout the troubled holy land.

Jaffa, Mount Zion, Mount Canaan, Hattikvah, Samaria, Extradon and Acre were all scenes of considerable firing. Bombs were thrown at Jaffa. Officials denied previous reports British families were evacuated from Jaffa about a week ago. Earlier, official sources reported a number of British families were moved to the all-Jewish city of Tel Aviv under protection.

The official casualty list showed 48 persons including one European, killed since April 29; 321 persons injured, including 17 Europeans. In addition, 969 Arabs and 275 Jews have been arrested, some of whom were subsequently released.

More than five weeks of disorders and terrorism, inaugurated when Arabs instituted a general strike and civil disobedience campaign, assumed the aspect of open rebellion in many parts of Palestine.

Nationalistic Arabs have demanded that British authorities stop both Jewish immigration and the sale of land to Jews.

Although the British armed forces here are the largest since the World War, further reinforcements are expected shortly. A portion of the troops is advancing in a mountain sortie against Arabs accused of plundering Jewish property.

China Protests

Refuses To Accept Explanations From Japan

Nanking.—China refused to accept Japan's explanation of why she poured thousands of additional troops into North China.

In answer to a protest from the Nationalist government, Tokyo explained the increasing numbers of Japanese subjects in North China made necessary a heavy reinforcement of her Tientsin garrison.

The foreign office here issued a statement disclosing it has instructed its ambassadors at the various capitals to inform the governments to which they are accredited that China is unable to accept the reasons Japan has given for augmenting the troops.

In addition, the government was understood to have forwarded a new protest to Tokyo.

Canadian Doctors In U.S.

Are The Medical Shock Troops Of This Continent

London, Ont.—Canadian doctors were "really the medical shock troops" of this continent, Lord Tweedsmuir, governor-general of Canada, told the Ontario Medical Association at a luncheon here.

"The great medical schools of the United States, I understand, such as John Hopkins, at Baltimore, and some of the chief clinics, are largely manned by Canadians. Everywhere in the United States, His Excellency added, "a Canadian doctor has a position of special prestige. I have been told—I need hardly say by a fellow countryman—that you occupy in the States very much the same position that a Scotsman does in England."

Toronto Man Lucky

Toronto.—Roy H. Storms, Toronto factory superintendent in a textile firm, is $75,000 richer because he held a sweepstake ticket on the 14th of the English Derby, but he won't give up his job. "I'm content. I'm happy," he said, "but satisfied customers come first and I can't desert the firm that has been so white with me."

Financed By Children

Logan, Utah.—For 27 years Mrs. Annie P. Dickson "taught" school to send five of her six children through college. Now the 61-year-old mother is completing her own college work.

Victoria University, Toronto, this year celebrates the centenary of the granting of the Royal Charter in 1826. The actual celebration will be held on October 3rd, 10th and 11th next. During the hundred years of its history Victoria has been fortunate in the succession of leaders who have held the position of chancellor and president. At the extreme right, Rev. Egerton Ryerson, president 1841-1847, who was instrumental in securing the Royal Charter; second from the right, the Rev. S. S. Nelson, chancellor and president, 1850-1887; second from the left, the Rev. Nathaniel Burwash, chancellor and president, 1887-1913; extreme left, the Rev. P. B. Bowles, chancellor and president 1913-1940 and now chancellor emeritus; centre, the Rev. E. W. Wallace, who was appointed chancellor and president, 1930.

RAIL GRADING OF HOGS—A NEW MARKETING SYSTEM PROVES POPULAR.

During the past 4 weeks one Alberta packing house has bought over 2000 hogs on a rail-graded, dressed weight basis. This method of buying hogs has just been inaugurated in Alberta during the past 4 weeks, and, from all reports, the farmers who have sold their hogs in this manner are very well satisfied and are coming back again, to sell on the same basis.

The buying and selling of hogs on a dressed weight basis has been in operation in Eastern Canada for over a year.

It is now over 10 years since the Federal Government installed the present system of live grading. There has been a remarkable improvement during the past ten years in the percentage of Bacon hogs produced. This improvement is a direct result of the present system of live grading.

The Federal Government are now sponsoring the marketing of hogs on a rail-graded, dressed weight basis.

A few words of explanation: The marketing of hogs on a dressed weight, rail graded basis is exactly what the words imply. A farmer delivers his hogs; these hogs are then tattooed with a number, so that they may be identified when they are killed. The live hogs are then weighed up, so that a part down payment may be made. This down payment usually runs around 75 p.c of the butcher price. The hogs are then killed and weighed individually to the exact pound. A Government grading inspector then grades the hogs on the killing floor, according to standards as set up by the Federal Government, and the final payment is made on the basis of that grade. These grades correspond very closely to the present live grades. It will be easily seen that the Grading Inspector is able to do more efficient grading with the split carcass before him, as he does not have to estimate weight, depth of backfat or thickness.

Whip marks, scratches and bruises shall not be a factor in determining the grades, except those hogs which are seriously damaged. Carcasses that are condemned will be paid for on the same basis of the grade in which they would otherwise fall.

A farmer might well ask himself: Why should I change over to Rail Grading; How do I benefit by it; How does the Hog Industry benefit by it?

These questions are easily answered. When the present system of live grading was instituted, the policy of paying premiums to the farmers who raised good hogs was started. In a very short time there was a great improvement in the number of Bacon hogs marketed.

By the Ottawa Trade Agreements the Old Country gave Canada a quota of 280 million pounds of bacon each year. Since this Agreement was put into effect the closest we have ever come to reaching the quota was, roughly, 40 p.c., or 168 million lbs. short. We might explain now:

The 40 p.c we did ship was not of the best quality, due to the fact that the producers had not raised the right type of hog. A lot of this Bacon was just medium quality, and not the type that would command a premium or establish Canada as a leading exporter, insofar as quality is concerned, on the Old Country market.

We fell down to the extent of 16 million dollars a year in using our natural resources. We did not raise enough hogs, and we did not raise hogs of good enough quality.

If all this shortage had been consolidated and made up in our own province of Alberta, this province would have been the most prosperous one in Canada today. Just imagine 16 million dollars a year more income into Alberta, and the results thereof!

Sporting Notes.

Good baseball should be seen here this year. The local ball club has entered the Hi-way Sixteen League. Stony's first game was played in Edmonton, where the North Edmonton boys won, 8-7, in a closely contested game.

Playing here on Sunday, Fort Saskatchewan started off with a bang and took a 4-0 lead in the first innings. Errors were responsible here; but Herman Loeblich went in and by striking out most of those who faced him, held the visitors scoreless until the ninth. In the meantime the local boys had crossed the plate 6 times, to lead with a score 6-4. In the 9th Herman eased up, and 2 hits gave the Fort another run. He then again bore down and struck out the next man; but an error on the catcher lost the game. The final score was 9-6.

The next home game in this league is billed for Sunday, when North Edmonton comes to town.

If the locals expect to win games, errors will have to be cut down. They hit fairly well; and with Herman Loeblich to do some of the pitching, there is no need to throw away games needlessly.

The new league includes teams from North Edmonton, Fort Saskatchewan, Gibbons and Stony.

Don't forget the big day here on July 1st. Prizes have all been increased, and, with a break from the weatherman, we should have a record day.—H.C.O.

Lecture on Australia.

The United church was well filled on Friday evening, on the occasion of the address given by Miss Grace Pattullo. This young lady was the winner of the Australian Government's Essay competition, sponsored through Canada by the Australian trade commissioner. The lady had spent five months at the Antipodes and her address was a delightful word picture of her sojourn there. With her, she had many curious and articles of interest, which added greatly to the interest of her lecture.

Louis Ulmer Injured.

Louis Ulmer, farming in the Wembley district, met with a serious accident last week when his team ran away and he was thrown out of the wagon, a wheel of which ran over his right ankle, forcing the bones out thru his boot.

The injured man, who is thirty years of age, was taken to Wembley and attended by Dr. Carlisle, who, after administering first aid, rushed him to the Grande Prairie Municipal hospital.

It is understood that Mr Ulmer is making favorable progress.—Grande Prairie Tribune, May 28.

Spruce Grove News.

Mrs A. Gerhardt, Southey, Sask., is visiting this week with her parents, Mr and Mrs Jesse Jespersen.

At Peace Lutheran church, at Spruce Grove, on Sunday next, June 7th, the following young people will be confirmed by the pastor, Rev H. Kuring: Lydia Pootz, Anna Dietrich, Willie Schmidt, Carl Javarsky, Eddie Schram.

Residents here were surprised on Monday night, during the Amateurs' hour on station C.J.C.A., to hear the voices of two charming young singers, Miss Mildred and Miss Irene Ries.

J. Ducholke Jr. is the census taker for the district across the Baseline from the Spruce Grove village and six miles south.

A good crowd of fans motored up to Stony on Sunday, to witness the "League game between Stony team and Fort Saskatchewan.

The Grove's baseball fans were sure disappointed over the two games which were to have been played on the local diamond. On Friday evening the Enox team did not show up; on Sunday the Stony team sent down word that they had an engagement with the Fort Saskatchewan team on that day, which prevented their appearance at the Grove.

On Saturday evening last a "shower" for the benefit of the two Stony Plain bachelors who were to take the leap into matrimony on June 3rd, was held at the residence of a prominent sportsman located east of the Grove. A large number of invitations to the affair had been sent out, and a hearty response to these was made. The articles contributed were varied, some useful, and none too costly.
